ST AUGUSTINE'S PARISH VISION STATEMENT

St Augustine's Parish is a community striving to be Christ to one another and to welcome and serve the Christ in those around us. THE MOST BODY AND BLOOD OF CHRIST

– YEAR B

5th & 6th June 2021

ENTRANCE ANTIPHON

He fed them with the finest wheat and satisfied them with honey from the rock.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

Response: I will take the cup of salvation, and call on the name of the Lord.

How can I repay the Lord for his goodness to me? The cup of salvation I will raise; I will call on the Lord's name. R

O precious in the eyes of the Lord is the death of his faithful. Your servant, Lord, your servant am I; you have loosened my bonds. R

A thanksgiving sacrifice I make: I will call on the Lord's name. My vows to the Lord I will fulfil before all his people. R

SEQUENCE

Behold the bread of angels, sent
For pilgrims in their banishment,
The bread for God's true children meant,
That may not unto dogs be given:
Oft in the olden types foreshowed;
In Isaac on the altar bowed,
And in the ancient paschal food,
And in the manna sent from heaven.
Come then, good shepherd, bread divine,
Still show to us thy mercy sign;
Oh, feed us still, still keep us thine;
So may we see thy glories shine
In fields of immortality;
O thou, the wisest, mightiest, best,
Our present food, our future rest,
Come, make us each thy chosen guest,
Co-heirs of thine, and comrades blest
With saints whose dwelling is with thee.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION

Alleluia, alleluia!

I am the living bread from heaven, says the Lord;
whoever eats this bread will live for ever.

Alleluia!

COMMUNION ANTIPHON

Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood remains in me and I in him, says the Lord.

Thoughts from the Presbytery

FEASTS OF THE WEEK

Fri: The Most Sacred Heart of Jesus
Sat: The Immaculate Heart of the Blessed Virgin Mary

Miracle at Lanciano

At altar foot, he starts to say
"Introibo ad altare Dei" (I will go into the altar of God) (Is this the thousandth piere oblation offered since my ordination?)
Tim-trimmed liturgy perfected,
Consecration quick confected,
As ling'ring doubt once more returns
That in his bosom baleful bierns:
This bread, this disc, this host so white
Is this Christ's body, true and right?
Awestruck, O God, he then beholds
True flesh, true blood, his clay enfolds
Abashed obeisance, so belated
Adores he Christ the Uncreated!

HOMILY

A Tale of Two Scarves

Recently, I read the autobiography of the Dalai Lama. I had the privilege of meeting him some years ago, at which time he spoke to me of his great sadness at the destruction of Tibetan culture at the hands of the Chinese authorities and their occupying army. He gave me a white silk scarf which I still treasure.

The Dalai Lama is clearly a man of spirituality, given to deep meditation, simplicity of life and compassion towards all sentient creatures – altogether an admirable figure.

And yet, as I read his autobiography I was overcome by a great sadness. He wrote that, after death, there could be a further phase as an insect or an animal.

Contrast that story with that of Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus also faced great danger and mortal peril at the hands of the occupying power. Knowing this, He slipped into Jerusalem using secret signs – 'a man carrying a pitcher of water' – to find a safe house for the Passover meal with His followers.

And then, anticipating His execution by the Roman power and with faith that He would lead a glorified fully human existence after death, He gave to His followers a sacramental way of sharing in His death-overcoming-life.

By sharing in a sacred meal, they would be eating and drinking His very existence: 'This is My Body. This is My Blood.'

As Pope John Paul II stated: 'With the Eucharist we digest, as it were, the "secret" of the Resurrection. For this reason, St Ignatius of Antioch rightly defined the Eucharistic Bread as "a medicine of immortality, an antidote to death."'

[repeat the quotes]

Each time we receive Holy Communion we receive what to our senses is bread and wine, but which is in reality Our Lord's humanity in its glorious state after the Resurrection.

We don't face the prospect of death in the way the Dalai Lama does: the annihilation of his individual existence or return as a compassionate monk, or an animal or an insect.

We face the prospect of death as a transition. As we say in the Mass for the Dead 'For your faithful, Lord, life is changed, not ended.' We remain who we are – human beings with individual personality – and we pray that we may share more completely in the Resurrection-Life of Jesus Christ.

In the meantime, we sacramentally share in His resurrection-life every time we receive Holy Communion, communion with Him in the guise of a meal. A strange meal! Usually what we eat and drink becomes who we are. On this occasion, we become what or rather Who we eat and drink!

Why did Our Lord choose bread and wine? He was anticipating our sharing with Him heavenly life which He often pictured as a marriage feast. Holy Communion is the first course of the marriage feast of Heaven.

It is a real sharing in Heavenly life (eternal life) under the appearance of bread, which nourishes us and wine which gladdens our hearts. Our Lord shares His resurrection life with us in a way which nourishes us and gladdens our hearts.

Yes, I treasure the white silk scarf which the Dalai Lama gave me. I treasure even more the scarf, or 'stole' as it is called, which the Archbishop gave me at ordination. That is the insignia which allows me to celebrate Mass.

At every Mass we can say and pray with St Thomas Aquinas:

'O Sacred Banquet in which Christ is received
and a pledge of future glory is given to us.'

Fr Michael Tate

He has gone out of his mind

In the Gospel today we read that Jesus has returned home and causes quite a commotion on his arrival. Word about this healer and teacher has gotten around, the crowds have gathered, and the religious leaders are not happy. Jesus' growing popularity has started to upset daily life for his family to the point where 'they could not eat'. In an effort to protect their son and their brother, Jesus' family try to explain away his 'unruly' behaviour. They tell the crowd and the religious leaders that Jesus does not mean what he says, he has simply 'gone out of his mind'. In their view, things have gone too far. Jesus was preaching a message that seemed radical to many. He knows that bringing about God's dream for the world involves speaking out and behaving in ways that are counter cultural. The religious leaders go so far as to say that Jesus was possessed by a demon. It was their way of 'explaining away' someone that they could not cope with, someone who was challenging their systems and practices. We can think of those in society today who are 'explained away'; those whom society wishes would stop speaking out because it is uncomfortable to listen to. Name-calling is often a last resort when institutions or 'powers' are disgruntled. The young climate activist, Greta Thunberg, knows this well. Following taunts by Presidents and Fossil Fuel executives towards her, she famously said, 'When haters go after your looks and differences, it means they have nowhere left to go... and then you know you're winning.'

The end of today's Gospel is troubling as Jesus seems to dismiss his mother, his brothers and sisters. But Jesus' mission is now wider than his immediate family. It is not that he no longer cares for them, God's vision and Jesus' vision for this world are now one. As sometimes happens in life, we have to let go of certain things in order to follow our true path.

COMMUNION REFLECTION

The bread that I shall give is my flesh,
for the life of the world.

Isn't the greatest gift one can give to another,
the gift of oneself?

Gifts can be sent in the post,
credited and impersonally given;
a gift can be chosen quickly or with care.
The gift expressing the giver's personality
or the relationship between two people is most welcomed.

That's the gift of the Eucharist;

The bread that I shall give is my flesh,
for the life of the world.

This means, it is myself.
When I give my time and listen,
when I share my experience,
or speak from the heart, or risk opening myself
that another person may grow,
then I am giving myself.
And this is what Jesus does.

He allows us into the hidden heart of his life:
his relationship with his Father,
his real beliefs about love and justice,
peace and religion, life and death;
his hopes for the poor,
his conviction to suffer and die
for God and for us.

He breaks the joys and sorrows of his life,
he invites his disciples and friends - you and me -
to share our love for the life and growth,
the encouragement and development
of those with whom we share our lives.

The bread that I shall give is my flesh,
for the life of the world.
